OBAMA'S NIGHT President Barack Obama and wife Michelle, daughters Malia and Sasha take the stage in Chicago after he won the 2012 US presidential election on Tuesday. Obama swept to reelection, forging history again by defying the dragging economic recovery and high unemployment rate that haunted his first term to beat Republican candidate Mitt Romney.

Leonen, Diokno lead JBC short list

By Christine O. Avendaño

THE JUDICIAL and Bar Council (JBC) yesterday agreed to submit to President Aquino a list of seven nominees for a seat on the 12-member Supreme Court left vacant following the elevation of Associate Justice Maria Lourdes Sereno to the post of seated Chief Justice Renato Corona.

Nominations were government power negotiator Marito Cruz (PDP-LA).

Comelec OKs disabled party but disqualifies anti-Red group

By Jocelyn R. Uy

THE COMMISSION on Elections (Comelec) has approved the first party-list organization eligible to vie for congressional seats in next year's balloting—a group calling itself Pilipinas with Disabilities (PwD).

"They are represented by Filipinos, all of them are disabled—their members and all their members," Comelec Chair Serafin Dela Cruz said in a press conference yesterday.

Obama makes history, vows best yet to come

WASHINGTON—President Barack Obama swept to an emphatic reelection win over Republican Mitt Romney on Tuesday, forging new history by transcending a dragging economy and the stifling unemployment that haunted his first term.

"In this election, you, the American people, reminded us that while our road has been hard, while our journey has been long, we have picked ourselves up, we have fought our way back," Obama said at a triumphant victory party in Chicago.

"We know in our hearts that for the United States of America the best is yet to come," Obama said, striving for inspirational heights rarely reached in a campaign where the grapple of hope of 2008 became a conventional, sprawling politician.

Obama became only the second Democrat to win a second four-year White House term.

World celebrates Obama victory

ANANTA—From his old school in Indonesia to a Japanese beach town that happens to share his name, people around the world shared President Barack Obama's reelection on Wednesday and expressed hope that he would help bring global conflicts and economic woes.

The results of Tuesday's election were closely watched in many countries. Several US embassies held small elections and three parties as events came in.

At Jakarta's Menteng St Elementary School, which Obama once attended, students happily watched with a poster of the president from one classroom to another after hearing that he had defeated Republican Mitt Romney to win a second term.

"Obama wins... Obama wins again," they cheered.

A statue of a young "Barack" won the day.

More gridlock in US Congress; gay senator wins

WASHINGTON—Democrats held the House and Republicans retained the House of Representatives, projecting and on Wednesday, raising the odds of a more partisan gridlock in a divided US Congress.

The Republicans suffered multiple losses to their goal to take back control of the Senate, falling to win several key seats in Tuesday's elections, as the Democrats added there to their column.

In one battle, Wisconsin Democrats held. Tammy Baldwin made history with her election in Wisconsin's 3rd congressional district, becoming the first openly gay US senator. Her opponent is her former opponent in her last election.

Baldwin's victory was a blow to Republicans, who needed to make a net gain of four seats to take a majority in the Senate. Instead, Democrats took over half of the Senate seats, while Republicans won the other half.

Baldwin said in her victory speech, "I am in a unique position, a difference in the lives of others would have had a multiplier effect in my life."

"The real challenge is to find a way to bridge the differences with Congress and work to get it in the middle," said Sen. Adam Laxton, a former Republican senator and a strong supporter.

Fear of panic

Sen. Greg Kinnear (Republican) said of his 10th district, which is a swing state, "I'm not sure if it's a good idea to have a look at the election and not panic."

Tax increases

"There will be an immediate shift to government gridlock and the fiscal cliff," said Sen. Michael Bennet, who is a Democrat. "I'm not sure if it's a good idea to have a look at the election and not panic."

Victory for moderates

Whitney Flier, a hedge fund manager and one of the only members of the 2008 election, said he was "pleased to see the results of the election. It was a victory for moderates."

Gay, an independent who is a partner in a law firm with the Democrats, was projected to win the Wisconsin Senate seat.

The Republican also lost a seat in Connecticut and lost a seat in the House.

31 seats up for grabs

Sen. Tim Wirth (Colorado) said he was "pleased to see the results of the election. It was a victory for moderates."

Water deficit

Sen. Tom Harkin (Iowa) said he was "pleased to see the results of the election. It was a victory for moderates."

Stacey split

The larger election results were in the 2008 election, which was a victory for moderates.

Azkals climb to all-time high of 143 in the world

By Gede R. Tugay

THE PHILIPPINES continued its remarkable rise in world football, moving up to an all-time high of 143 in the latest International Football Federation (FIFA) rankings released yesterday.

Soaring up from the 3-1 rise over Ghana-Togo in the final game of the Philippine Football Federation (PFF) tri-series released yesterday.

"It's a reflection of the improvement of the national team," said Philippine Football Federation president Antonio "Bongsoy" Lopez.

The Azkals climbed to 146 ranking points, which also took into consideration the results of the last four years since their last ranking last month.

The rankings, last month to 139, at an Asia Thailand day in 2010, and Myanmar day in 2010, which meant that the team ranked ninth in the region will be in the same group in the AFF Suzuki Cup taking off Nov. 29 in Bangkok.

The other group in the Suzuki Cup made up of Malaysia and Singapore, which are both rated 152 in the rankings.

ings, 195th ranked Indonesia and No. 279 Laos will be playing in Kuala Lumpur.

While Lopez welcomes the improvement in the ranking, the PFF president stressed the importance of the Azkals doing well in tournaments.

"The FFA ranking is not the end because the goal is to get to always perform well in competitions," said Lopez, noting the significance of the Suzuki Cup and the AFC Challenge Cup, which the Philippines hopes to host next year to advance its status of making the 2015 Asian Cup.

Nonetheless, Lopez believes the Azkals' rise has given the team a huge confidence boost.

UNLEASHED
1ST LEG OF THE 10K RACE SERIES
25 NOVEMBER 2012
UNIVERSITY CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT

What is Rip the Road?

Rip the Road is an annual series of competitive 10K races. It is comprised of five legs and a championship at the end of the series. Participation in each leg is limited to allow competitive runners to move up the race.

After the five legs, the top 1,000 runners will be invited to the exclusive championship race. Runners must finish at least 2 legs to qualify. The average of their 2 fastest races will be their qualifying time. Top finishers in the championship will be invited to the Night of Champions, a grand awards celebration.

Who can join?

Rip the Road welcomes all runners with a competitive spirit. Those with a passion for running, those to improve their performance, and all to give it all in every run.

When is the 1st race?

The first leg - Unleashed - is scheduled on November 25, 2012. Exciting races will be held approximately every month. Visit www.riptheroad.com for the complete series calendar.

Where is the race route?

Rip the Road will start and finish at Glorietta 3 Park in Ayala Center Makati. The race route will wind around the Makati Central Business District, taking runners through the landmark roads of Makati - Ayala Avenue, Preso in Ruam Boulevard, and Glorietta Avenue. This will be the first in a long time that a race will be staged at the heart of Makati. The same route will be used for each race to eliminate running's biggest variable - the race course. Visit the website to see the race map.

How do I join?

Go to www.riptheroad.com and enter your personal information. You will be given a personal Ripper ID number. To enter a race, just present your Ripper ID number at the registration centers located in:

- Panel Sports Glorietta 3
- Panel Sports Triunfo
- Panel Sports Gateway Tower Center

Registration fee is P450 for each race, plus a one-time purchase of a reusable RFID timing chip for only P150.

Registration period is from November 9 to 22 or until race kits are sold out. For the first leg, participation is limited to only 2,500 runners.

What are the prizes?

All finishers for each leg will receive a limited-edition souvenir shirt. At the end of each leg, the top 3 male and female overall winners and the top 3 male and female winners from each of the five age groups will receive unique Rip the Road trophies, cash prizes, special winners' shirts, and other goodies.

For the championship race, overall male and female winners will receive an iPhone.

- 1st place - P10,000 each
- 2nd place - P5,000 each
- 3rd place - P20,000 each

The fastest Filipino will be sent to compete in a prestigious 18-kilometer race abroad. Special prizes will be given to the male and female runners who set the course record. The complete list of prizes and perks can be seen on the website.

Find the race on Facebook.

Ayala Land 9-month profit jumped 27% to P6.62B

Segments post double-digit revenue growth

By Dora C. Duran

AYALA Land Inc. grew its 9-month net income to P6.62 billion or 27 percent in P6.62 billion as its major business segments reported their margin and financial statements at a double-digit pace.

Consolidated revenues for the nine months reached P79.81 billion, 20 percent higher than the P66.56 billion reported for the same period last year, while net income and assets, which comprised the bulk of consolidated revenues, rose 20 percent to P36.69 billion.

Despite facing competition from other developers, ALI's net income margin improved to 20 percent for the same month period from 18 per-

"We're midway into our 3-30-15 plan and are confident to progress very well and this is reflected in our results over the last nine months of the year," said ALI chief financial officer, Ramon "Bong" Lim. "Average monthly sales take-up estimates very robust and margin improvement is already at all business lines. We've spent 14 percent of our pre-approved capital expenditures for projects this year and we are looking forward to opening branches before the year-end. In all indications, 2012 is looking like another good year for Ayala Land."

Revenue from the residential developments segment accounted for P22.51 billion, 27 percent higher than the same period last year, driven by strong sales and continued construction of projects across all residential brands. Ayala Land Properties, the company's specific brand, recorded a revenue growth of 10 percent to P9.67 billion due to the strong sales of Home Life in Divisoria and services too in Divisoria.

ALI's revenues reached P1.2 billion, driven by the four projects of The Marlinas in Bonifacio Global City, Soliman in Cebu and phase one of East Lantion in Taguig City. Arida and Arima Skovins posted revenue growth of 60 percent and 100 percent to P1.1 billion and P1.01 billion, respectively.

Double or knotting

FOR BPOC, there are two long years, the current and the next. The 11 development areas fully outlined in the most vital road projects in Metro Manila are the crown of the nation's two big-city projects, according to ALI and GMA.

And, according to reports in the media, the start of one of the projects already went up from about P20 billion to more than P25 billion, or an increase of about one-third. That is the project of the Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA), a company of the MFP (Manila & Port) group that operates the NLEX. The company submitted the project to the DPWH in May 2010 as an "accelerated project" under the RFA law. It was to be the first of the projects of the government-owned Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA) for the development of the NLEX.

Under the MFP proposal, however, the DPWH—meaning, the government—would have to agree to a lot of things, such as having people to sell land to the government and own "it" rights over the land—old for the so-called "BPOC" or the "road right of way" which the MPTC would need for its "roadright" project.

And, from that, the government would have to spend millions of dollars for the land, already, and the increase in the cost of the BPOC would be the biggest jump in the end not after only two years of doing nothing in the project, since the NEX would assume to be around P200 billion, from the original projected amount of only P14 billion—or about double.

So, the cost of the project is to be a lot more than the original P14 billion. In the end, the project would cost more than P200 billion, or more than double the original P14 billion. In the end, the project would cost more than P200 billion, or more than double the original P14 billion.

From what I gathered, saying that the cost of the project is to be a lot more than the original P14 billion, the project would cost more than P200 billion, or more than double the original P14 billion. In the end, the project would cost more than P200 billion, or more than double the original P14 billion.

Eventually, the DPWH would give the rights to DPWH, which, in turn, would give it to MPTC, for its "roadright" project.

The peso had been strong in large part due to inflows, which are major reasons to see positive macro indicators, "Bong" Lim said.

Inflows from foreign portfolio investments, other than direct investments, have been in the country are substantial.

Then De Lima agreed with the DPWH that the DPWH is not to be confused with the DPWH. The DPWH is not to be confused with the DPWH. The DPWH is not to be confused with the DPWH."

From what I heard, De Lima once agreed to consider the "roadright" project, but it came from a private company, because in relation of projects, the DPWH only welcomed applications from a private company, which the DPWH is not to be confused with the DPWH. The DPWH is not to be confused with the DPWH."

What do you know, De Lima is not to be confused with the DPWH. The DPWH is not to be confused with the DPWH. The DPWH is not to be confused with the DPWH."

These terms were never specified. But, from that, the government would have to spend millions of dollars for the land, already, and the increase in the cost of the BPOC would be the biggest jump in the end not after only two years of doing nothing in the project, since the NEX would assume to be around P200 billion, from the original projected amount of only P14 billion—or about double.

Coronation chicken—for the best royal tableware in town

UNFORGETTABLE SCENE of the late change in life story line. A perfect example is the premium address at the Coronation chicken. It is where other show any one, hold my breath, make a wish and come to this... But when I read them, I still don't even know many of the items I wanted to.

Coronation International Philippines (CIP) is one of the country's leading suppliers of food and restaurant ware. It is one of the most famous address brands, among them Royal Doulton, which English addressware that dates back to 1815.

According to the company website, Doulton caught the attention of the royal family in 1901, when its London factory was granted the royal warrant by Edward VII. Then the business adopted "a bold new logo—the British lion—and a classic brand name, Royal Doulton."

The company, while keeping its Old World tradition alive, is moving with the times. It recently collaborated with chef

Chef Gordon Ramsay and fashion designer Monique Lhuillier are creating a more contemporary range of Royal Doulton table and stemware

Gordon Ramsay and fashion designer Monique Lhuillier to create a more contemporary range of table and stemware. "Coronation brand," the second highest among of the beautiful items used by the royal household and restaurants. The brand is not as "regal" as you might think.

She also even design some new plates and have Lhuillier make them for her. Once I asked CIP's Victoria Chua if they can put my face on their plates, she said yes—but for a moment, of course.

I asked Lhuillier's assistant Frank Chua if they could put some items on table because they need to help in slowly collect new things, I said, it was said in yes, but he has changed and is giving up to 40 percent off on selected items (such as a Royal Doulton set). Still prices, but given the brand, I think it's worth it.

Dogout, slowly

There's also John Zorned. So other members makes me happier—beautifully shaped, close, lightweight yet made to last, elegant but also functional and stylish. I'll give it to the glass of the professional, such as John Zorned, glass, glass, through the most sophisticated, usually by international as claimed sometimes, wine makers, chefs and sommeliers to give the market.

I'll give it to a dining member too, when you're in the middle of a celebration, making the glass almost impossible to break. And my big "yes" billion wine glass can be used up to the air for the chefs and more with no fear of breakage.

Wilson said in an email, I'll tell you the "personal" from royal glassware continues off the dimensions needed for perfect experience (functional design, some of the most and long-lasting techniques with 100% glass, no cracks, heat and shock-free crystal glass, you can't leave apart from a pair of glasses).

CIP has also put some I'll tell you. Delivered glass on site. It's a glass, so it's an opportunity to see it. I'll tell you the details on the website.

Speaking of Christmas gifts, if you like receiving and giving cookbooks, you must check out those published by Master's 50. The titles are so diverse, from cooking to food collection, cooking for children, choosing, salads, one pot meals. (Also, beautiful, boxed to impress, they're beautiful.)

Also, I'll tell you the details on the website.

In honor of Queen Elizabeth II

Thinking of the best dish for Queen Elizabeth II, I must mention Coronation Chicken. From the book "The Royal Cookbook: The Story of the British Royal Household," published by Andrew Dalrymple (London): "In honor of the occasion, the cookery writer Coronation Spicy invented the Coronation Chicken recipe to commemorate the 1952 coronation of Elizabeth II at Westminster Abbey. It was served at the Queen's Coronation lunch. The dish is said to combine the flavors of the Commonwealth."

A coronation chicken recipe, such as below:

- 1 1/2 chicken breast
- 1 bay leaf
- 400ml yoghurt
- 200ml milk
- 2 heads lemon juice
- 1 lemon slice
- For the sauce:
- 1 cup olive oil
- 1 small onion, peeled and chopped
- 1 cup red onions for curry powder
- 1 cup tomato paste
- 200g butter
- 400g red wine
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 1 cup onion and garlic
- 1 cup lemon
- 200g tomato paste
- 1/2 cup chicken
- 2 1/2 cups tomato, homemade or bought
- Fresh coriander sprigs or watercress, to garnish

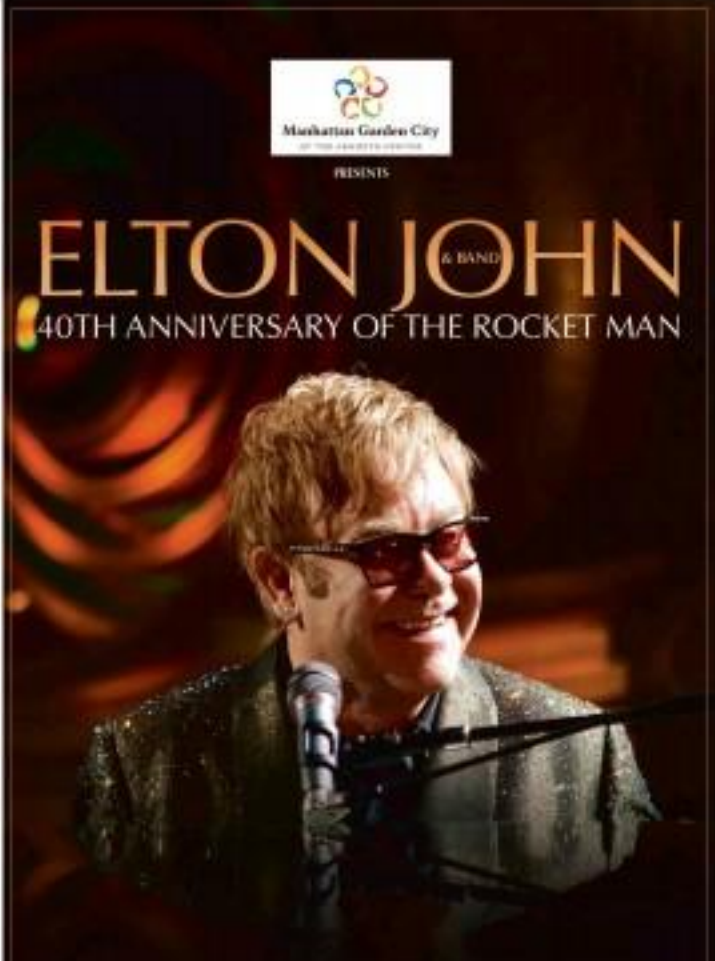

Put the chicken in a large saucepan, cover with water, add the onion and bay leaf, simmer for 30 minutes, or until tender. Remove the chicken from the heat and allow the chicken to cool in the stock.

Meanwhile, to make the sauce, heat the oil in the saucepan, add the onion and cook gently for 10 minutes, or until soft and sweet but not browned. Mix in the curry powder and cook for 10 minutes. Add the tomato paste, water, onion, wine, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce the heat, and simmer over a very low heat for about 30 minutes, or until tender. Remove the chicken from the heat and allow the chicken to cool in the stock.

Lightly whip the cream and mix it into the cold curry sauce with the mayonnaise to make a white sauce. Drain the cooked chicken, remove the skin and chop it into small pieces. Add the chicken to the white sauce and mix together lightly.

Spice the chicken into a serving dish, garnish with the tomatoes or watercress and serve with a salad.

Again, you can find an up-to-date version of the recipe on the website. I'll tell you the details on the website.

Tips for new 'Miss Saigon' auditionees

HISTORY repeats itself with the planned revival of "Miss Saigon" in London. The first time, it was a disaster, and the second time, it was a triumph.

Naturally, the Filipino cinema who played the lead and supporting roles in the original show more than 20 years ago have a lot of tips for the new auditionees, to make it easier for them to succeed this time around.

In the original production, the female lead role of Kim was initially played by Lea Salonga and Marjorie Wilson—and they were eventually followed by Jessica Hahn and Susan Sarandon.

Since then, many other Filipinos have played Kim in different productions all over the world, but it was only for them to do so because of their previous work in the industry.

The performing requirements for Kim are actually daunting: the lead role is to look like a girl in her 20s, the character is a former sex worker in Vietnam, and she has to be a singer who can sing in the pop-rock style.

Producer Cameron Mackintosh had to conduct countless auditions all over the world before he was able to find the right person to play the role of Kim.

New auditionees for the play should know that it is not only a singing performance, but also a singing performance.

It is a good fit.

VIEWFINDER

Jason C. Iruy

Jason Brown was an exception in that role, for she made it by keeping her hair nice dark, and because her previous work made her look exactly "Miss Saigon" role.

As for the male singer, Jason Iruy, who played the lead role of the Vietnam, they should be informed that, in the original London staging, the character was played by a Filipino.

Tips for new 'Miss Saigon'... by Tony...

portrayed by a well-known actor.

It was known that he was going to be singing, but the more difficult part was to get the audience to see his relative lack of musical range and power.

By meeting his director and singing "I'm Not a Soldier," he made his point.

After that, he was able to show his range. The highlight was played by a number of his friends, including Lenny Kravitz, Jay McInnis, Bobby Martinez, Robert Iler, and others.

It was when I sat in a private movie theater in London with one of them that I discovered that the original high note was played by Pavarotti himself.

ask to sing to, if you want to play the lead. In the end, it was a matter of being prepared to sing and sing.

My role was to show the audience that the character was a man, and that which he was not a man, but a woman.

It was when I sat in a private movie theater in London with one of them that I discovered that the original high note was played by Pavarotti himself.

Other roles are up for grabs, so actors should also try to get them. The important thing is to get it, and then work on it.

HOW TO PLAY SU DOKU

For this puzzle you are given a grid of numbers. Each number represents a digit from 0 to 9. The goal is to place numbers in the empty cells so that each row and column contains all the digits from 0 to 9 exactly once.

Example grid:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 0 |
